Dear Hiring Team,

I am applying for the Web Developer role at OVATech OPC. My background is strongest in React, TypeScript, and frontend-focused fullstack delivery, with experience building production interfaces, reusable component systems, and responsive landing pages across education, ERP, hotel management, and IoT products.

In my current role at Uzaro Solutions Technology Inc., I have helped deliver 6+ concurrent platform builds while maintaining a structured workflow through GitHub Projects, a custom PMS tool, CI/CD pipelines, and Jest testing. I also use AI-assisted prototyping and scaffolding tools to move faster from idea to implementation while keeping the engineering work grounded and maintainable.

What fits your role particularly well is the combination of practical web development, clear documentation habits, and disciplined delivery. I have built multi-tenant systems, supported real-time dashboards, and worked across multiple product areas where organized context and reliable execution mattered more than flashy process.

I would welcome the chance to contribute to OVATech OPC by turning product ideas into clear, usable web experiences and by supporting the team with careful execution, structured project tracking, and fast iteration.

Sincerely,

Zen Andrei Obrero
